Jamie Platts before leaving for Cydel Clinic in Tijuana in November of 1986.

Jamie returns from Mexico

By Carolyn Vesely
After four months of treatment and five operations in Mexico, cancer victim Jamie Platts is back home.

But for the 11-year-old Drayton Valley youth, home is Edmonton where he has been in and out of hospital since developing a spinal tumor at 18 months.

Jamie greeted his family with a brave smile last Monday upon arrival at the Royal Alexandra Hospital via a jet donated by the Teamsters Union.

Breathing with the aid of a respirator and partially blind, he was placed in pediatric intensive care and was listed in stable but serious condition.

During a phone interview last Thursday, Jamie's mother Gail said he has been taken off the respirator and put on a steamer to keep his lungs clear.

"The doctors said as far as his lungs are concerned, he's stable," she said.

Gail spent the past four months with her son in Tijuana's Cydel Clinic where he had experimental treatment for tumors on his brain and spinal cord. Gail reports that doctors removed two water cysts and implanted a new shunt, a tube used to drain fluids from the brain.

Although Jamie has been responding to his family with smiles, he can't speak yet, which Gail said is due to either his trachea tube or the feeding tube he had in his throat for three months in Mexico.

Jamie has already had more than 70 operations during his battle with cancer, which Gail feels is all he can take.

"We feel he just couldn't go through another one," she said.

The doctors in Tijuana told Gail the treatment should give Jamie another 10 years to live.

"As far as how much he'll recover and in what time span is not definite," she said.

Because of the pressure of the tumors, damage was done to the right frontal lobe of Jamie's brain, the part that controls abstract reasoning.

Gail explained that because of the damage, he'll need a lot of neuropsychotherapy which can train the left frontal lobe to compensate for the deficiency of the right one.

She added it may be possible to get a neuro-psychologist to work with Jamie in his home in Drayton Valley where she plans to care for him.

"We're really hoping with neuropsychological therapy and nursing him at home that he'll pull through," she said.

As to when Jamie returns to Drayton Valley depends on the results of a brain scan which also involves injecting dye into the brain, to determine if the tumors are returning or if there is any infection.

Gail is being trained by hospital staff to care for Jamie when he comes home, but with Jamie's illness, she's already had 12 years' experience as a nurse.

On Wednesday, April 15 Jamie will celebrate his 12th birthday, a tender age to be fighting a battle such as his.

It is an heroic individual who can muster bravery beyond his years and still smile through such pain.

"Handing out band-aids"

Ailing oil industry given shot in arm

By Steve Fletcher

Local companies agree that the federal oil aid package will act as a shot-in-the-arm for the ailing oil industry.

But some also say the $350 million will mean only a partial or short-term break for oil producers and end services.

The government says the recently announced Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program will create at least 12,000 direct jobs, 10,000 indirect jobs, and spur at least $1 billion in investment.

The grant limit of $3.3 million (for a maximum $10 million investment) will gear the program toward smaller companies.

"There's no doubt that it's going to help," says Andex Oil field superintendent Colin Kinniburgh.

The company has already begun to talk about drilling an extra 12 wells during the summer, he added.

Kinniburgh believes the federal Tories' job creation estimate is more or less accurate, although his company won't be hiring anyone directly.

The government is simply "handing band-aids out to keep it (the oil industry) going along," says Bruce Clemmer, co-owner of Wild Card Enterprises, Ltd.

He predicted the incentive program would have "no long-term effect" and that the job creation calculations were well off-base.

"I can't see a massive job increase," Clemmer said.

Mistakes were made five years ago with the National Energy Program and the PGRT (petroleum revenue tax), he added.

With 10 years experience in the business, Clemmer believes any real economic growth in the energy sector will depend ultimately on outside forces (the international market) and, on the price of oil.

The manager of an oil field supply company, who wished not to be identified, said his company would be one of those benefitting indirectly from the aid package.

"It will help us in all our sectors — some in the long term, some in the short-term. Our sub-surface tubular sales will go up immediately because of the need to drill wells."

But he also said the program, geared to the smaller companies, would have only a minor effect on the industry as a whole because "the little companies don't have the world's greatest cash-flow."

Any aid will be a good thing, said Ed Chymycz, owner of Double N Oilfield Services.

He doesn't know yet whether the oil aid will generate short-term or long-term growth, but "if it gets back to where we were before, it'll be fine."

Chymycz said his company has been suffering greatly since the start of the year, and has had to layoff about 10 workers — one-third of staff.

Mayor Bob Mayhew said the aid package, as long as taxes aren't unduly affected, should help the town.

"Anything that's going to assist the economy is a plus."

Council News

Town council is requesting a meeting with the minister to discuss the 20 per cent cut in the community, recreation and cultural (CRC) grants.

In light of their arena project, council is concerned over the fact the CRC grant has been reduced to $16 per capita. Next year it will drop to $12 and $10 the next two years.

Mayor Bob Mayhew suggested last week a thermometer be erected in town to record financial contributions to the arena. The town will approach the Community Centre Society to see if they are interested in sharing the cost of the thermometer.

The town will sell a parcel of land in West Valley Park to the curling club for $1 to be used for the construction of their new rink. The exact boundaries of the land will be determined by the property title, subject to a development agreement.

A gas bar/convenience store is proposed for the corner of 54 Ave. and 50 Street, across from DV Nissan.

The County of Leduc has advised council that a development permit has been issued to the Evergreen shooting club for a rifle and archery range.

The town's fuel contract has been awarded to ICG.

The deficit at the Park Valley Pool last year was $35,000 and $52,000 at the arena. Council was told last week the arena and pool are returning approximately a 70 per cent recovery rate, which is partly due to the charge for out-of-town organizations which utilize the pool, who pay a higher rate for use of the facility.

The town's athletic achievement awards will be presented tomorrow (Wednesday) night.

Workshop for teens

A workshop aimed at teenagers will be held at the Alder Flats school this Saturday.

It will deal with issues and communications related to teenagers.

The workshop that gets underway at 10 a.m. will include two guest speakers and a panel of teenagers. Parents are urged to attend the day-long session. Babysitting will be provided. A cold lunch will be available. For more information call Dobbie at 385-2314.

Shoplifting

Merchants taking harder line

By Steve Fletcher
The problem of shoplifting in town is so severe that a local pharmacist will be combating the problem with a $15,000 alarm system.

"It will pay for itself in about eight months," Laurie Tkachuk of Value Drug Mart says.

Tkachuk estimated he loses $20,000 a year to shoplifters.

The alarm system will be installed at the pharmacy some time this week.

While he wouldn't describe it as reaching crisis proportions, RCMP Cpl. Tom Turner said shoplifting has become "enough of a problem that merchants in town are starting to take a harder line. They seem more insistent on laying charges than in previous years."

"Probably the worst offenders are between the ages of 12 and 16. Most are males, and a lot of them are picked up for stealing 'girlie magazines,'" Turner said.

Other popular shoplifting items can range from shaving lotion to chocolate bars.

Of all those arrested last year, only one — a runaway from Edmonton — was picked up for stealing food.

"There doesn't seem to be any reason (for shoplifting). It's more for the thrill or peer pressure than anything else," Turner added.

He stated that store owners like Tkachuk are beginning to take precautions such as installing alarm systems because they can't continue to lose money.

"If he makes a $3 profit and something worth $30 is stolen, he has to sell 10 more of those items" to make up his losses.

The store owner is not in business to lose money, and so any loss in revenue due to the shoplifter is passed on to the customer, Turner explained.

Young offenders can receive a maximum $500 fine and community work for a shoplifting conviction.

Those over the age of 18 face a maximum fine of $2,000 and/or six months in jail.

Good publicity

Press will be allowed at rec meetings

Town council has cleared the way for The Western Review to continue covering recreation board meetings.

By virtue of a 3-2 margin, a motion to exclude the press from attending the monthly recreation board meetings, went down to defeat last Thursday. Council was forced into the position when they were presented with a motion from the recreation board. At their March 18 meeting, the recreation board voted 4-2 to exclude the press from their meetings.

Councillor Alex Salfi took exception to the recreation board recommendation. He asked Councillor Dave Lundberg, who sits on the board, why the action was taken.

Lundberg replied that it was because of articles appearing in the paper before they went to council.

"The publicity we get is good. We don't pay for it," Salfi remarked.

Mayor Bob Mayhew suggested at the March 18 recreation board meeting, that if there was anything they didn't want to discuss in front of the press, they could go into camera.

Another flood?

This was the scene at the Drayton Valley golf course last week...with water almost up to the bridge on the eighth hole and the bridge on the ninth (in the background), already floating away from its moorings. However, club president Les Bannerman wasn't worried as last July's flood had water at the top of bridge's handrails.

Not a dating service

Local singles club offers companionship

By Carolyn Vesely

Singles in the Drayton Valley area (living or otherwise), range in age from 18 to 72, but have some same basic needs, like companionship and fun.

The West Country Singles club was formed seven years ago by four locals with a single aim in mind — to help people cope with the loneliness of being single.

Single marital status, whether unmarried, separated, divorced or widowed, is the only requirement for becoming a member, said Irene Scott, vice-president who has been with the club since its conception.

"We're a friendship club, not a dating service," she said. "We offer companionship."

The West Country Singles currently has about 40 active members, the majority of which are women. The club runs year-round and holds dances at the Elks Hall the first Saturday of each month. Other activities include bus trips to places such as Stage West in Edmonton, barbecues, picnics and card games.

Meetings are held the third Wednesday of each month at the Pembina Pipe meeting room at 8 p.m. to plan events and get ideas from members.

"We'll try to plan anything," Scott explained. "People just have to bring their ideas to the meetings."

Although it is a registered club, the West Country Singles receives no financial assistance and operated initially on a shoestring budget, relying completely on membership fees.

"We're a non-profit organization," Scott said. "When we first started, we had to have bake sales in the mall. That's how we kept the club afloat."

Scott explained that the West Country Singles had its largest membership during its second year of operation with nearly 70 people on the register. And while it functions nicely now at a steady 40, she expressed her frustration at not being able to attract the under-30 crowd.

"We can't get the younger group. They come to our dances, look in and say 'Look at those oldies.' We've worked so very hard to get our club off the ground and are interested in getting young people interested so it can continue when the older members are no longer as active."

Scott said people often don't want to come to club events alone, especially men, and encourages members to bring guests.

While the dances feature country and western and oldtime music, the bands are versatile and play a variety of tunes, she said.

There are similar clubs in the area including Watskiwin, Leduc, Camrose, Millet and several in Edmonton.

Scott emphasized that new members are always welcome and anyone may attend a planning meeting, even if they aren't a member.

Parenting

A 'p' talk on parenting will be held on Tuesday, April 14 at the FMHS theatre.

Peter Smilanich, an education consultant from the Edmonton Public School system will be the guest speaker.

There's no admission for the 7:30 p.m. meeting, sponsored by the Drayton Valley Regional Parent Education Society.

Everyone's welcome.

County over-reacting about insurance?

The matter of liability insurance is getting a little out of hand.

Because of some 'big' claims paid out by the insurance companies, a lot of people are treading rather lightly.

The Drayton Valley Minor Hockey Association made people aware of the seriousness of the matter several months ago, when they imposed a $2 fee on anyone who assisted them in a volunteer capacity. The Yellowhead School Division followed by suspending some of their contact sports, out of fear of liability insurance.

Now, the County of Parkland says a hill originally planned for the school yard at Elementary B was scrapped, because of safety. In other words — liability insurance.

What's more dangerous — a hill where kids can play or a playground structure? What about all the glass that can be found around the school yards or the many ball diamonds and soccer pitches that literally run into each other?

Marv Tkachuk, superintendent of schools for the county explains it this way. "The problem the county school board faces in considering this enhancement to playgrounds is one of insurance. Our master umbrella insurance policy makes the following specific exclusion: 'Exclusion of any premises of the insured designated as skiing, tobogganing, sledding or sleighing areas (permanent or temporary).'"

"This exclusion is interpreted by our personnel to mean that extended insurance coverage is not available to cover accident claims resulting from injuries occurring on hills developed for the purpose of sledding. Faced with such exclusion the board can't afford to knowingly increase its insurance risk."

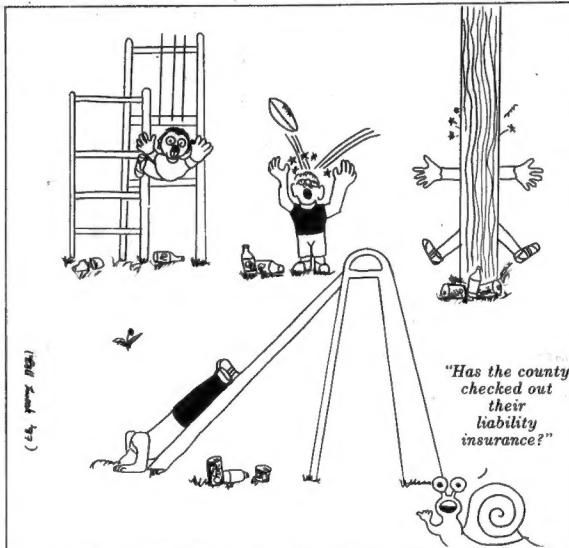

At their last board of education meeting in town, the county announced plans for a $27,000 playground structure at Elementary

B. If they're so worried about liability insurance, maybe this idea should be scrapped. And, all the facilities the schools offer, both indoors and outside, should be taken out.

If the county is going to worry about paying out a claim, they might even close the schools, in case someone trips on the stairs, breaks a leg, and a claim has to be paid.

It's obvious that the County of Parkland's Board of Education, for one, is over-reacting.

Hansen, Platz inspiration to others

The next time you're feeling depressed, think of people like Rick Hansen and Jamie Platz.

Both of these individuals are inspirations to the rest of us.

Last Monday I had the opportunity of seeing Rick Hansen in Prince George. The feeling I had made me forget all about getting out of bed at 6 a.m. to see the Man In Motion leave the B.C. city after a four-day stay.

Next time you drive the Yellowhead, up and down all those hills, and try and dodge the potholes, just think that Rick Hansen made the same trek in a wheelchair.

Unbelievable.

One thing about Rick Hansen that impressed me, was the time he took to talk with people. Coming out of the Holiday Inn last

Frankly Speaking

by Frank Ryan

Monday, Hansen stopped to chat with several wheelchair people before setting out on the final leg of his trip.

He's certainly a young man we can all be proud of.

Jamie Platz is the 11-year-old Buck Creek resident who has battled cancer and most recently, his sight.

In the past nine years, Platz has faced upwards of 70 operations.

Just last week he returned to Edmonton from Mexico, where he had a tumor removed.

His parents, Gail and Larry, have never lost faith throughout the entire ordeal, and they are to be commended for this. It's hoped that Jamie will rebound from this latest experience, to enjoy his 12th birthday on April 15.

The next time you're having a bad day, just think of the miles Rick Hansen has logged or all the operations Jamie Platz has endured. And, I'm sure you'll realize, things aren't all that bad.

CanSurmount

Help for cancer available locally

Roger Fox and John Mulligan turn the soil.

By Jeff Hansen
Journalism student
Grant MacEwan College
Drayton Valley residents with cancer can now turn to CanSurmount for help with the disease.

"Beforehand, if someone from around here had cancer and they wanted help, they had to go to the nearest CanSurmount program, which is in Edmonton," said Debbie Walker, who helped start up the volunteer organization in Drayton Valley last August.

Walker said the CanSurmount program is sponsored by the Canadian Cancer Society and is a support group for cancer patients and their families to learn more and cope with the disease and its treatment.

"It's a one-to-one visit with either cancer victims or their family," she said. "Say, if a wife lost her husband or if a child has cancer, we see them. The visits can be made either in the hospital or at home."

All CanSurmount volunteers, Walker said, are cancer patients or have family members with the disease.

"This makes it easier for cancer victims to talk to us because we know what they are going through and they feel comfortable talking to us," she said.

Walker, who has been living with cancer the past 11 years, and Sandra Bioletti from Drayton Valley helped get the program off the ground. "We started it up because I did some volunteer work in Kelowna and she did some work in Red Deer," Walker said.

"Before we could start it up out here, we had to have the local doctors and nurses give us the approval because some of the visiting is done in the hospital."

"We went to the hospital board and the nursing staff, and we attended a doctors' meeting and described what the CanSurmount program is all about," Walker said. "The idea was well received by everyone at the hospital."

After a slow start, the CanSurmount program is beginning to receive inquiries from people with cancer. "The response was slow at first, but now it's pretty good," she said. "From the number of people who have contacted us, you can tell that Drayton Valley needed a program like this."

CanSurmount originated in Denver, Colorado in 1973 and the first program was brought to Canada in 1978.

With April as Cancer Month, Walker and other volunteers of the CanSurmount program in Drayton Valley are finalizing plans to canvas the area on behalf of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Asked what she envisions for the future of the CanSurmount program in Drayton Valley, Walker said, "I hope there will be a cure for cancer, that's for sure, but I guess I would like the program to be more recognized within the community. It's public awareness that will make CanSurmount work."

"If you or someone you know might be interested in seeing a CanSurmount volunteer, or in learning more about the program, please contact Walker at 542-6212 or Bioletti at 542-3983.

New offices planned

Plans have been announced for a new office building in Drayton Valley.

Work started Monday on a 2,400-square-foot building on 82nd Avenue, between the Ink Pot and NRS Realty, to house Prudential Assurance, the Motor Vehicle office and Kathy Polatuk Accounting.

The single storey block building is being built by Mulligan Enterprises Ltd.

John Mulligan and Roger Fox, Prudential Assurance branch manager, turned the sod for the 80-foot-long building last week. The building is expected to be ready by June 1.

CRC grants cut

The County of Parkland will have to do without $95,943 as a result of the province's cutback in community, recreation and cultural (CRC) grants.

The CRC grant, which was previously pegged at $20 per capita has been reduced to $16. The 20 per cent cutback means the county parks and recreation department will receive $389,951 as opposed to the $479,894 they got last year.

That makes the task of grant allocation a difficult job for the recreation board, especially in light of an increase in funding requests.

Organizations looking for funding are being urged to look at other avenues for financial help.

Building totals

Building permits only totalled $82,000 last month in Drayton Valley.

This compares with $2,461,000 in March of last year and $452,450 for the same month two years ago. The entire $82,000 was for two residential developments.

Permits in January were $222,000 followed by $247,000 in February for a three-month total of $1,251,000.

Picking right list price vital to a quick sale

(NC) - Establishing the correct list price for your house is probably the most important thing you can do to make a sale.

The first step is to establish market value - something that can be done using recent sales comparable properties.

Bartering's encouraged
But houses rarely sell for what people ask. Real estate is one of the last areas where price negotiation is encouraged. So, it's obvious to all that the list price must be higher.

As a rule, never list your home for more than 10 percent over its market value - and if you're looking for some early response, I would limit it to 5 percent at most.

However, every part of Canada has its customs. So find out from your salesperson what the local experience is - statistics are available on the average difference between list price and sales price. And keep in mind that those statistics relate only to sales - which is what you want - not to properties that remain unsold.

Buy within the range
More specifically, people tend to look at properties in price ranges - for example, the $70,000 range. If you house has a market value of $77,000 don't list it at $81,000, even though it's only 5 percent higher! You have to keep it in the 70's. Finally, everyone loves those $79,900 list prices. In fact, there are probably more homes listed at that number than any other in the $70,000 range. So how do you get salespeople to look at your house first, before any of those others at $79,900? List it at $78,800! Silly, yes, but unusual list prices are just one way to attract attention.

Newspaper appreciated

Dear Editor,

I would like to thank you for all the efforts put forth by The Western Review in connection with the Town of Drayton Valley's 30th anniversary/reunion, through the advertising beforehand and the coverage of the festivities the evening of Feb. 7.

We are very appreciative of the attention and interest given to our 30th birthday by the press and television people. Without the support of the media and their inimitable ability to reach the masses, our celebration might not have been the success that it was.

Thank you for your involvement in our celebration of 30 years in the Town of Drayton Valley.

Entertainment much enjoyed

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the students union of the Grand Trunk high school in Evansburg on the excellent entertainment which they provided us with on the evenings of March 25 and 26.

The efforts and talents of students and teachers made it a most enjoyable and fun evening.

New rule for drawing funds

Groups seeking access to provincial or county funds will have to sign a dissolution agreement, the CRC has decided.

The agreement will ensure public access to facilities and equipment in the event that a society disbands and can no longer operate its facilities.

County council concurred March 19 with a recreation board recommendation that groups receiving Community Recreation Cultural

6. For those outdoor enthusiasts, don't miss the Drayton Valley Trail Ride on Sunday, May 3. The riders will be recruiting sponsors for the ride and donations made to the Canadian Cancer Society.

Please be aware that grants agree to the provision before they receive funds.

A dissolution agreement will ensure that equipment or facilities purchased with CRC assistance won't fall into private ownership if a society ceases to exist. Provincial law stipulates groups that receive CRC funds must be registered societies. Although the old recreation grant system required dissolution contracts, the CRC grant regulations no longer require them.

County recreation director Barb Pedersen told councillors, under the Societies Act, members could distribute property among themselves even though public funds had been used to help in the purchase.

"That is the problem the board is having now with grant applications," she said.

Reeve Ron Pollock said there is no problem with most community halls that receive funding but semi-private organizations that become private operations could be the problem.

Royal Purple

Drayton branch to host meeting

Drayton Valley's Order of the Royal Purple will host the annual meeting of District 12 this Saturday.

Secretary Gladys McMorris said more than 30 members from the district's four lodges (Leduc, Warburg, Brerton and Drayton Valley) are expected to attend.

The meeting will be held in the Elks Hall from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with a lunch to be served.

The Order of the Royal Purple is a dominion-wide organization and each lodge has its own executive.

McMorris is the only active charter member in Drayton Valley who has been with the organization since its inception in 1956.

Members of the Royal Purple sponsor youngsters across Canada who are under 19 years of age and have problems, medical or otherwise, and are not receiving help from any other source.

McMorris said the organization also initiated a special deaf detection program in hospitals, provided funding for hearing aids and paid the expenses for a family to take its sick baby to the Toronto Children's Hospital.

Dominion representative Judy Lynch of Camrose will be at the meeting to help the 55-member Drayton Valley branch elect a new district deputy.

The position is presently held by Lil Mayhew.

Also on the agenda is a review of last year's work and some floor drills where the members march and line up to spell out words such as 'purple cross' or 'Order of the Royal Purple'.

Petition plan grows

A petition against the provincial budget now being circulated in the area by a local housewife, began to stir up support within a day of its arrival last Wednesday.

Berryman housewife Linda Gibson decided to bring the petition here after hearing of the overwhelming support it was receiving in southern Alberta, where it was initiated by Carstairs housewife Pat Lyons.

Gibson received a copy of the petition titled, 'The People of Alberta are the Backbone of the Province,' from Lyons and hopes to get at least 2,500 signatures from the Drayton Valley area.

"If the government can help industries and banks, why can't it help the citizens and their families?" she said.

The petition, which has room for 20 signatures per copy, proposes that the Alberta government withdraw $3.5 billion from the Heritage Trust Fund to reduce the provincial deficit.

"Everyone has contributed to it (Heritage Fund)," she said, "but the government sure hasn't been putting any restraints on its spending."

Gibson said anyone interested in either signing the petition or helping to circulate copies of it can contact her at 542-2377.

"As voting citizens of this province, we can make a difference."

Reunion

Rebels win 6-4

By Frank Ryan

It was a fitting way to end the local hockey season.

With 349 paid fans in the stands, the Drayton Valley Rebels celebrated their first-ever reunion with a 6-4 exhibition win over the Lamplighters old timers squad.

The big winner in the Sunday afternoon game at the Centennial Civic Centre was the arena/complex who will receive the gate receipts which totalled $1,050.

Sam Belcourt and Neil Hutchinson paced the Rebels with two goals each. Kevin Boulter and Jim Feeney added singles. Defenceman Frank Roggeveen had three assists.

Mary Tonnauer, Bob Stenberg, Bill Hutchinson and Al Dumke replied for the Lamplighters who were outshot 48-24.

Besides the 22 Rebels who dressed for the game, several office officials were in attendance.

Doug Barnes, former club president and announcer, was back at his old position in the penalty box. Vic Waishaar, who now lives in Red Deer, and Musty Gawalko of Drayton Valley, returned as goal judges. Dave Boulter, who played for the club from 1968-70 dropped the puck between Jim Wilson and the Lamplighters Lyle McGinn to start the game. And Jim Crough, a former stickboy, was in attendance.

Harold Reinhardt, who organized the reunion, drew a good response from the very appreciative crowd.

The teams battled through a scoreless first period, thanks to the goaltending of the Rebels' Barry Pankewicz and the Lamplighters' Bernie Frost. With the Lamplighters leading 2-1, Stephen Hope came in to replace Pankewicz at 10:16 of the middle frame and Ray Dupperon took over for Frost.

The teams were all even at 3-3 after 40 minutes. Belcourt with his second at 1:14 of the third gave the Rebels a 4-3 lead and Feeney made it 5-3 at 10:19. Dumke kept the Lamplighters' hopes alive with an unassisted marker at 13:20 but Hutchinson ended it with his second tally at 18:46.

Only a half dozen penalties were called in the well-played contest.

Following the game, the players adjourned to the Elks Hall for a social gathering.

The game brought down the curtain down on another hockey season, as the ice plant was turned off after the game.

Hosts failed to win

Red Deer wins basketball title

By Frank Ryan

The final outcome was never in doubt.

One look at the Red Deer Pacers, and the other 11 teams in the Alberta Intermediate C men's basketball tournament all but awarded them first place.

The Pacers won four games on the weekend including an 89-81 decision over Fort McMurray in the final played in Drayton Valley.

However, the Pacers' win was not without its controversy.

The Red Deer team had originally entered the intermediate B provincials. But when those were scrapped, and the Edmonton Bullets withdrew from the C playoffs, the Alberta Basketball Association (ABA) offered the vacancy to Hinton. When they didn't meet a deadline, the spot was given to the Pacers.

In defending the criticism of allowing a B team into a C provincial, ABA program coordinator Jake Steinbrener said the Pacers play in the same league as the Red Deer Knights and Stettler, and because they were at the tournament, he couldn't see any problem.

The Pacers opened with a 103-77 win over Drayton Valley and followed up with a win over the Rosemary Hoopers to advance to the playoffs. They built up an 18-point lead at the half and went on to a 101-93 win over the Edmonton Centre Club in semi-final action before meeting Fort McMurray in the final.

Drayton Valley was the first team to be eliminated at the three-day provincial tournament.

Paul Sacula hit for 35 points in their 103-77 loss to the Pacers and then had a 29-point effort in a 92-76 loss to Rosemary. Gerald Dusterhoft added 15 points for Drayton Valley and Lee Edgson contributed 14 in a losing cause.

Fort McMurray had two round-robin wins over the Edmonton Devils and the Red Deer Knights in advancing to the playoffs. And, they needed two free shots from Tate MacKenzie with 34 seconds left to edge Grande Prairie 63-51 in semi-final action.

Stettler, the defending champs, failed to qualify for the playoffs, when they ended the round-robin with a 1-1 win/loss record.

Action under the Drayton Valley basket.

Scoreboard

Pro boxing card

Two boxers have indicated an interest in staging a boxing card in Grande Prairie.

Kelly Portillo, a Grande Prairie fighter, would like to stage a card at the rink scheduled for the end of May. Robert Talbot of Edmonton, who is ranked fourth in world weight divisions and has won 10 of 11 bouts, has been offered a contract by the Grande Prairie rink.

Engles sweep Kangaroos

It was easier than the River Plate Engles figured.

The Engles won the Alberta B.C. Intermediate hockey series with three straight wins over the Western Kangaroos in two games. Playing on home ice the Engles defeated the Kangaroos 4-2, 7-1 and 4-4 wins.

The Engles opened their best-of-five Western Canada Hockey Cup final on Wednesday last Friday.

Hockey school folds

The five-year-old Whitewater Summer Hockey School will fold unless someone new wants to take on the job. Two administrators who had been operating the school since its inception due to declining enrollment and rising expenses.

New hockey executive

Richard George has been elected president of the Grande Prairie Minor Hockey Association. George has been associated with minor hockey since '84 and last year was vice-president.

Pool is official

After two years of planning, Three Hills town council has announced plans to proceed with a $1,000,000 indoor swimming pool.

Canaks heads minor ball

Dwight Canaks has been elected president of the Grande Prairie Minor Ball Association. Jim Berg is the new vice-president.

Wild Rose rodeo news

Three Drayton Valley area residents are on the '87 executive. They include Ramona Nash, the barrel racing director, John Duffy, saddle bronc director and Ken Hopf, the all-around director.

The Wild Rose circuit kicks off in Grande Prairie April 18 and ends Aug. 23-25 in Sangudo. In all, 50 rodeos are mounted for the circuit.

Consequently, the Millbank rodeo is set for May 30-31. Fairview dates are June 27-28 and the annual classic at Tomahawk is set for Aug. 29.

Tiggers on the road

The Drayton Valley Tiggers, defending Alberta Intermediate C ladies basketball champs, will try and make three straight this weekend when they journey to Edmonton for the Alberta finals. The event will be held Saturday and Sunday at the McNally Composite school. The Tiggers play their first game on Saturday at 10:45 a.m. against Shawville Operators of Edmonton and then face Kennedy Oilfield at 8:45 p.m.

Green machine champs

The "green fighting machine" are the Drayton Valley Commercial Hockey League playoff champions.

They defeated the Blue Sabres two straight (7-3 and 7-3) in their best-of-three final. The Sabres advanced to the final by eliminating the Red Lanceros and Black Saints while the Greens had a first-round bye, based on their first-place finish during the regular season and they sidelined the White Wildcats before meeting the Sabres.

Hockey blitz for arena

Players from the men's Oilfield and Recreation hockey leagues plan to blitz the town, selling a square foot at the proposed arena/complex for $50 each. Rick Lapointe and Dave Malson are organizing the blitz.

Hockey provincials

Devils only victors once

The Drayton Valley Devils season came crashing to the ground last weekend.

The Devils, who chalked up an impressive 30-2 win/loss record during the regular season, and an 8-3 win/loss record in playoffs, only managed one win in three starts at the junior B provincials in Wainwright.

The Heritage Junior B champs, who were ranked second in the province heading into the tournament opener last Thursday jumped into a 4-0 first-period lead against host Wainwright. They led 4-2 after the second but at the final buzzer, Wainwright won 7-5.

The following day they ran into Calgary, and came away with a 4-4 loss.

Their only win, in which coach Preston Yachimec called a "nothing" game, was a 5-4 overtime win over Beaumont.

Yachimec and Connelly last Thursday jumped into a

Devils' coaching this season, called it a fair year. "It went a lot better than expected. We had a lot of talent," Yachimec summed up the season.

While they failed to win the big series, the Devils had a good ice record, winning 39 of 47 league and playoff games.

Next on their agenda is the club's windup awards night, April 18 at the Elks Hall. Tickets can be obtained from the players.

Bantams winless at the finals

The Norette Oilers would rather forget their weekend trip to the bantam provincials in Westlock.

The Drayton Valley club was eliminated in three straight games.

Their weekend started with an 8-4 loss to Innisfail at 10:30 a.m. last Friday morning and then later that day (9 p.m.) they dropped a 10-0 decision to Peace River. On Saturday afternoon, Taber recorded an 8-4 win over the Oilers.

The Oilers outshot Innisfail but according to coach Dale Warren, a few bad breaks proved to be the difference. Roland Polsfut, Bryan Everett, Miles Parker and Chris Hutchinson scored for Norette, who trailed 4-2 after the first period and 7-3 after 40 minutes.

"We came out flat," was how Warren described his club's loss to Peace River. "We got outplayed something terrible," he added.

Penalties hurt the Oilers in their loss to Taber. Trailing 2-1 after the first and 4-3 after two periods, Norette ran into penalty trouble midway through the third. With two Oilers in the penalty box, Taber scored two goals en route to the win. Leonard Johnson, Colin Tuckwood, Trevor Fedorov and Everett scored the Oiler goals.

Manager Doug Everett said the boys just weren't up for the provincials. He indicated that their recent series with Edson may have taken too much out of the players.

With the provincials out of the way, Norette will take to the road, with a tournament in Oids this weekend and Calgary the following weekend.

Drayton Valley course

Golfers may face pay hike at course this year

Golfers may have to pay more to play on the Drayton Valley course this season.

A general meeting scheduled for Monday, 7:30 p.m. upstairs at the clubhouse, will look at a proposed rate increase.

According to professional Howard Vickers, who's returning for his fourth year, fees for men and ladies could jump from $185 to $216.

The proposed family rate would see an increase of $30 to $440. The rate for juniors and students is recommended to stay the same as last year.

Vickers also says Monday's general meeting will discuss a slight increase in green fees. However, locker, cart and club storage fees are likely to stay the same.

Weather permitting the course may open this weekend. The course opened on April 20 last year.

Vickers reports that clearing and burning has been completed on five of the new holes.

Joining Vickers in the pro shop will be Blair Shimbashi, returning for the fourth year and Greg Tucker, who is starting his third year.

Bob Bach remains as the construction superintendent and a student from Fairview College will join the staff as greens superintendent.

One change will see Sonia Urchayshyn take over as food and beverage manager, replacing Freda Batke, who retired at the end of the last golfing season.

Vickers doesn't feel the decline in the oil patch will affect their membership, that totalled 618 last year. He's hoping staff at the new strandboard plant will fill any void.

Kids' b'ball meeting

A children's baseball meeting will be held Thursday, 7 p.m. at the Moon Lake Hall.

All residents who are interested in having their children play on the Moon Lake baseball team this summer are urged to attend. For more information call Donna at 727-2946.

Hockey school slated to start in June

By Gord Montgomery
If your hockey-playing kids haven't had enough of the game yet for one season, grab ahold of your chair — there's more just around the corner.

A summer hockey league will be starting at Parkland Arena at Spruce Grove in late June, and run through until early September, Colin Kilburn said.

Kilburn, the organizer of the National Youth Summer Hockey League, said they had planned on having the school originally in the Grove, but because fees will not be available this summer due to staff cuts, the program will take place at the Winterburn arena.

"The league will be for kids aged from four to 17-years-old and will include all leagues, right from Tom Thumb up to and including midget," he said.

All games in the league will be held during the daytime, starting at 10 a.m.

and running through until about 4 or 5 p.m. There will be absolutely no weekend or night time play, Kilburn added.

"We will hold practices for the first week, to select teams and make sure everyone is playing at the proper level," he explained.

"Based on the number of registrations we receive, we would like to have each team play 16 league games, and then go into a playoff round."

"And, for something a little different in the way of team names, we will be using the city names of the NHL teams," Kilburn said. "We won't use the nicknames, say the Oilers, but we will use Edmonton as one of the teams. Each player on the Edmonton team would then get a sweater with a number corresponding to the first in the players on the Oilers' club, say number four. That child would wear that number and have the same Lowe on his back, rather than his own name. Of course, the only number we wouldn't use would be 99, as everyone would want that one."

Kilburn said there would be qualified staff working at the games, including two referees per match, as well as timekeepers and such.

Registration for the summer hockey league is $150 if paid in full by April 15. There is a family plan which would see the first child pay $150, the next $140, the third $130, and so on down the line.

There will also be a time payment schedule set up, which would see the first installment of $60 due on April 15, the second on May 15, and the final one on June 15. The same type of reduced fee schedule would be in place for families with more than one

"We want to try and make this interesting, and not too heavy on the pocketbook," Kilburn said. For further information on the summer hockey league, contact either Colin Kilburn at 428-1888 or in the Grove, Robert Horak at 952-5363.

Two vehicle fires

Drayton Valley Fire Dept. was called to two vehicle fires last week.

On March 30, a vehicle fire occurred at 4504-52 St.

And on the next day, the fire dept. was called to a vehicle fire at 5216-44 Ave.

Damage to both vehicles has yet to be determined, said fire chief Sheldon Fusco.

The cause of the March 30 fire was a leaking fuel line.

The cause of the March 31 is still not known.

Tomorrow

Open house

Have you always wanted to talk with town councillors, but never had the chance?

Local residents will get that chance tomorrow (Wednesday) during an open house, planned in conjunction with Municipal Involvement Week.

The week of April 6 to 10 has been designated for increasing Albertans' awareness of municipal government and enhancing their pride in their municipalities.

The open house will be held in the Legion Hall from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m.

Everyone is welcome to drop by to talk with town staff and councillors, ask questions or bring forth concerns.

Town council

Chamber of commerce asks for $13,000

The Drayton Valley & District Chamber of Commerce has asked town council for $13,000.

A five-member chamber delegation appeared before town council last Thursday.

Spokesman Mike Stasiuk told council they were looking at a $13,500 deficit and were asking the town for $13,000. It's the same request the chamber made a year ago, although they only needed $10,000.

The chamber is projecting disbursements of $57,030 and receipts totalling $43,200.

Some of the major disbursements on the chamber's '87 budget includes $6,300 in wages and costs for the tourist booth; $6,000 for the economic development committee (which includes printing more Outlook '87 brochures); $5,700 for wages and costs to operate the chamber office; $4,500 for office supplies, stationery and postage; $4,000 each for dinner meetings, a new chamber pin and placemats.

Revenues include $10,000 from their trade fair; $6,500 in memberships and $4,000 in advertising that will be included on the placemats.

The budget does not include any costs for a new tourist booth. Estimated cost of this project is $10,000.

A request for $2,000 to cover the cost of a float was questioned by Councillor Alex Sault. "Are we going ahead?" Sault asked. "Our intention is to go ahead," Stasiuk replied.

The chamber's request has been referred to the town's finance committee.

House prices rising dramatically in Canada

The latest home price survey by Canada Trust Realco confirmed what most of us have known for some time — house prices are rising dramatically in most parts of Canada.

The survey compared prices over a 12-month period ending Feb. 28.

Major centres in Central Canada produced the largest increases with Metro Toronto leading the way with an average 31 per cent. Close behind were Hamilton and Greater Montreal. Calgary was the only major centre to record a decline at five per cent.

Forest Hill, in central Toronto, recorded the largest increase and now has the most expensive housing in Canada. The four bedroom executive home increased $125,000 in value to stand at $399,000.

Locally, the Drayton Valley market has been quite stable this past year with attached duplex homes increasing in value $3,000, detached single family remaining at $82,000 and the executive home averaging $115,000.

Concerned Citizens of Lodgepole are looking at forming a Future memberships are now being sold at:

Gov't says

New municipality for area a certainty for Jan. 1989

The borders have yet to be drawn but one thing is certain — rural residents in the Drayton Valley area will have their own, new municipal district by Jan. 1, 1989.

After a referendum last year showed a majority of residents favored forming a new district from the eastern portions of Leduc, Wetaskiwin and Parkland counties and part of Improvement District 14, Alberta Municipal Affairs has approved a new jurisdiction and set a date for the start of its existence.

Boundaries have yet to be set, assets from existing counties haven't yet been divided, but there's no doubt west-end area people will be running their own municipal affairs.

Members of Parkland's county council and school board met recently with municipal affairs and Alberta Education representatives to discuss just such a scenario.

The meeting, closed to the press, was originally planned to review only municipal matters but was extended to include discussions on education at the request of municipal affairs, said Reeves Ron Pollock.

Discussions centred on school board representation. Pollock reported. The planned arrangement would see a new municipal district created while leaving school district boundaries untouched. Should the municipal district want its own school board, the next step would be involving into a county.

Were that to happen, voters could conceivably select different representatives to sit as municipal councillors and school board trustees, or they could vote in one man or woman to perform both functions on the different councils, Pollock said.

Dividing up assets between the new M.D. and the existing counties would be primarily a bookkeeping exercise performed by municipal affairs, Pollock said. "There would be some negotiation on particular issues."

"I don't see that (splitting assets) as a problem. We'll just have to work it out. It's a matter of negotiation."

Lofters capture team awards

In the ladies' league last week at the Twilight Bowl, Laura Barker rolled a 308 single and 721 triple. The Lofters captured both team awards with a 1,169 single and 8,871 triple.

In the mixed league, Irene Brochu had a 360 single and Shelly Graham rolled a 766 triple. For the men, Charles Lingard had a 509 single and 782 triple.

Registrations are now being accepted at the arenas for the spring leagues which start May 18. Bowling will be Tuesday and Thursdays from 1 to 8 p.m. or 8 to 10 p.m.

Plan to dam Pembina River gets lukewarm response

A campaign by a farmers' group to dam the Pembina River near Entwistle and prevent a repeat of 1980's flood met a lukewarm response by Parkland county council.

Group spokesman Barry Felstad's request for a letter from the county to the environment minister supporting a dam on the river was watered down to one of general support of flood control measures on the river.

The Pembina Valley Drainage and Conservation Association is lobbying the province to construct a 220-foot high dam on land originally purchased for a reservoir, about a mile north of Highway 16.

The dam, tagged at $160 million, would initially be constructed for flood control to avoid a repeat of the July 1986 disaster but it might also be used for future hydroelectric development, Felstad told council.

The reservoir would be about 12 miles long and two miles wide.

Felstad said in a brief to council. "The County of Parkland holds and borders more of the Pembina River than any other local government."

But councillors weren't convinced damming the Pembina would benefit county residents.

West-end Councillor Henry Rendeau wondered what would happen upstream if the river was dammed at Entwistle.

Backing up the water, "would probably hurt more than help," he said.

A dam at Entwistle would probably give little flooding control to Parkland residents, added Reeve Ron Pollock.

"I would agree. The dam looks like it wouldn't do us any good at all."

Felstad said studies would have to be done before the project was started. He said the County of Lac Ste. Anne has written a letter supporting the project.

Felstad said the reservoir site was originally purchased by the government in the 1960s as part of PRIME — a proposed, province-wide water diversion scheme that would divert Alberta rivers to supply fresh water to the United States.

Charges laid

Four drivers were charged with impaired driving over the weekend, Drayton Valley RCMP reported.

Three charges were laid on Friday and Saturday night, while the fourth was laid Sunday afternoon.

Also on the weekend, two drivers were handed 24-hour suspensions by local RCMP.

The four impaired driving charges brings this year's total to 21, Cpl. Tom Turner said.

Drayton's Restaurant offers gastronomic goodies

Drayton's Restaurant, the latest addition to the local eating-out scene offers residents a taste of something different.

The restaurant specializes in gourmet meals, including French, Spanish, Italian and Greek cuisines, says owner Peter Salmas.

"You name it, we make it for you," he said, adding that the meal-of-choice doesn't necessarily have to be on the menu.

Despite the high number of restaurants in town, Salmas feels he can survive the competition with Drayton's own special brand of gourmet dining.

Salmas, who also owns the Eagle Steakhouse in Hinton, said business so far has been better than expected.

The restaurant's seafood entree have been the most popular.

Plans for expanding the restaurant to include a banquet room on the upstairs level are in the works, Salmas said.

Drayton's, with 2,100 square feet of space, is licensed to seat 165 people, but has reduced this by 60 to allow for a less-cramped atmosphere.

The owner says his family-operated business offers a wide variety of lunch and dinner meals at very reasonable prices.

Drayton's is open seven days a week, from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday thru Saturday. And from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays.

The restaurant is located downtown at 5119-51 Ave. Advertisement

Officials shocked

Leduc County land loss greater than first expected

By Bill Ingles
A new municipal district in the Drayton Valley area would take in more Leduc County land than indicated in a September 1986 plebiscite. This came as a shock to county officials.

"The county was part of a plebiscite held and both greater and lesser concepts were presented. The lesser was approved but no attention was paid to the plebiscite and a much larger area was proposed."

"We have great difficulty with going that route," said Reeve Norman Bittner.

The plebiscite, conducted for information purposes by the department of municipal affairs, included two regions -- Leduc East and Leduc West.

Plans call for Municipal Affairs Minister Neil Crawford to recommend to cabinet that a new municipal district be established and incorporated effective Jan. 1, 1988.

"While being attached out in the west end we also have annexation going on. We also have no idea what's happening with Genesee. At the same time we have to address our budget in the face of failing grants. Any provincial government that is putting us in that position is being most unfair," said Bittner.

Voters in the west supported a new municipal body by a margin of 223-74 while voters in the east rejected the concept 249-389. The current municipal affairs proposal includes a proportion of the area that rejected the plebiscite.

The boundary proposed by the department uses Poplar Creek as a dividing line for the new municipal district in the county of Leduc.

Education will also be affected by establishment of a new MD.

"I think in all the information we received it was never pointed out they were considering that line. The view is that you can ignore the question of schools when making municipal decisions -- you can't ignore the school issue," said school superintendent Bob MacDonald.

The eventual establishment of a new school district could have serious consequences for schools at Breton and Lindale, said MacDonald.

"The establishment of a school system in the new MD will ultimately threaten the life of those schools," he said. "I feel sorry for the people in that district. It is going to be terribly divisive," he added.

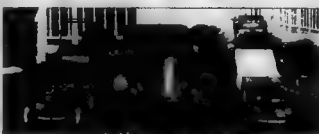

Present plans call for an MD in which education is separate from municipal administration. Under normal circumstances, a municipal district must exist for several years before a county can be formed.

Under county government, municipal functions are controlled by a council while related board of education makes decisions about education.

Middle age is when you realize that you'll never live long enough to try all the recipes you spent 30 years clipping out of newspapers and magazines.

Pipeband

Bagpipes, drums to be heard soon around area

By Caroleen Vesely

The shrill cry of bagpipes and boom drums will soon be familiar sounds at social functions in the area.

The Drayton Valley Pipe Band was formed last November through the initiative of Lynn Davis.

Davis (of the Davidson class) has been playing the bagpipes since 1987, when he took them up as a centennial project.

The band is comprised of six pipers and three or four drummers. Davis would like to see about 10 more people join, but said it would be difficult to get them to stay committed.

Membership in the band is open to all ages, but Davis said kids should be at least eight so they can manage the fingering of the instrument. He added it would be nice to also have some women join.

The Drayton Valley Pipe Band practices every Tuesday at the provincial building and every Wednesday in the Carnwood Hall.

Davis and Ken Hellervik of Winfield are teaching the younger members to play the bagpipes by starting them off on a basic recorder-type pipe called a chanter.

"If you had to practice on the bagpipes, your neighbors would leave," he said.

The bagpipe is a very old instrument, popularized in the 1700s, Davis explained. And contrary to popular belief, it originated in the Middle East, not in Scotland. In about a month, the band will be receiving six uniforms from Scotland, complete with kilt, jacket, belt and tie.

The Drayton Valley Legion recently donated between $5,000 and $6,000 for the outfit, which have a price tag of about $990 each.

The band hopes to generate more donations in order to buy more instruments, such as a bass drum worth $600 and a snare drum at a cost of $400.

An average set of bagpipes rings in at about $500, while the tartan for the kilts sells for $40 a yard.

Davis said there are no charges for teaching new members or playing for audiences.

"We just do it because we like it," he said, adding that the band's first big 'gig' will be the town parade in June.

Another member of The Drayton Valley Pipe Band, Bill Palmer said that if you have a musical ear, learning to play the bagpipes is not 'too difficult' but added that 'a certain amount of patience is required.'

The Drayton Valley pipers practice on their chanters.

British comedy to be presented in May

The Drayton Valley Players return to the stage in May to close the curtain on another season with a full-length play flavored with British humor.

Casting is complete, and rehearsals will begin soon for How The Other Half Loves, a comedy written by Celia Ayckbourn.

The plot revolves around the amusing antics and interactions of three modern-day couples, the men of which work for the same company.

The play opens May 27 and will also be shown on the 28th, 29th and 30th in the H.W. Pickup school gymnasium.

While the original script is written for British actors, this version has been revised into 'Canadian' English and will feature English humor, but not the accent.

The play will be directed by Dr. Ian Johnston while producer duties will be handled by Dr. Bob Thompson with the assistance of his wife Judy.

More than 30 people are involved in the production, including make-up artists, backstage helpers, set designers, costumes, lighting and sound, said Judy Thompson.

"We had an extremely good turnout for the audience," she said. "A lot of people came out for the production end of it too."

Thompson explained that while the D.V. Players try to put on three productions a year, they performed the musical Oliver last year which Thompson said, "look up so much time, there wasn't time or energy to produce anything else."

"We're pleased so many people who were involved with Oliver kept up their interest and came back."

Easter Seals

Auction to be held

The annual Easter Seals auction is scheduled for this Saturday, April 11 at the ~~West Mall~~.

Natalie Gibson, one of the organizers, says almost 60 per cent of the town has been canvassed.

She said it will begin at 10 a.m. with a garage carrying used items only.

At 11 a.m., the auction will take place with both used and new items available. The new items will be donated by the town's merchants.

Gibson, with Century 21 real estate, said the firm was last year's biggest corporate donor to Easter Seals, raising $1.2 million.

Last year's Drayton Valley auction took in a total of $1,900.

April Fool's joke

Claire Ross, of 4713-44 St. was the victim of an April Fool's joke when some friends attached this birthday banner to her home. Ross wants everyone to know she's much younger than the 41 indicated on the sign. Hallways were also used to decorate the front steps and trees

No cutbacks yet

Plans by Greyhound to cut its Sunday service to Drayton Valley has been postponed until at least next month, an employee says.

The decision to postpone comes on the heels of public outcries by other communities in Alberta over the bus company's plan to cut service.

Public hearings are slated for Whitecourt, Grande Prairie, Peace River, Lac la Biche and Red Deer.

Greyhound has asked the Alberta Motor Transport Board to allow it to reduce service from Edmonton to Dawson Creek, and from Edmonton to Lac la Biche.

Cuts to the Edmonton Dawson Creek route will include six-days-a-week stops in small communities in northern Alberta.

The bus company says these reductions are for economic reasons.

Any decision on the plan to cut the Sunday Edmonton to Drayton Valley run will not be made until after the last public hearing in Red Deer on April 22, the employee said.

No public hearings are scheduled to be held in town.

Happy 50th

As a pioneer in wildlife conservation, Alberta is proud to recognize the historic efforts by Canadian conservationists, public and private alike, for their dedication in providing sanctuary for our wildlife.

On this, the 100th anniversary of official commemoration, we are joining hands in designating 1987 as WILDLIFE '87 and the week of April 5 to 11 as National Wildlife Week.

This occasion is also marked by the establishment of Canada's and Alberta's first project of the special year — a wildlife area south of Sherwood Park, Alberta.

We were delighted that Strathcona was the first County in Alberta to sponsor a wildlife habitat in 1987. We hope this serves as a challenge for others throughout the province to become involved in projects for WILDLIFE '87.

A lot of bull at WEM...

By Philip Melnychuk
Don Cormie doesn't believe in doing things by half.

Not for him the modest, retiring approach. Cormie, owner of Cormie Ranches near Tomahawk, believes in taking the bull by the horns — so to speak.

Take recently, when he had to auction off some bulls from some of the ranch's world-famous bloodlines.

Rather than book into the same old stalls at the Northlands AgriCom, Cormie decided to rent the ice palace at West Edmonton Mall and hold his cattle auction there.

Extravaganza on ice, he called it. Cormie paraded 50 of his choice bulls on to the ice where the Oilers practise. Sophisticated shoppers breezing through the marble and glass of WEM may have been surprised to be greeted with sounds and smells of the farmyard, but it's all in the game of promoting the ranch and making people aware of agriculture, says Cormie.

"This seemed like a good event. It's different, it's exciting and can be fun," he said.

The only problem: wives attending the auction had free reign in the mall's hundreds of shops.

If the name and stunt seems familiar, Cormie's was the ranch that gained notoriety a few years ago by auctioning off bulls at the top of Principal Plaza in downtown Edmonton.

"That was very popular," he said.

The intent is to increase the public profile of the cattle industry and agriculture in general.

"Putting on a little show welcomes friends and neighbours from the Entwistle, Evansburg area to drop by all your vehicle requirements

Despite lean times for many Alberta farmers, things are looking up for the cattle industry, the ranch said.

Rising incomes in Pacific Rim countries such as Korea, Japan and Hong Kong mean greater exports of Canadian beef. "We expect that's going to put a good floor on our market."

Improvements in feeding and breeding cattle have also increased productivity, he said.

"Balancing act" secret to weight control

By Bev Brooks

For a good many of us there comes a day when a long look in the mirror and a short ride on the bathroom scales says, "There's just too much of me. I had better get serious about my weight!"

If this sounds like you, this is the time to get serious about your personal nutrition habits and your activity patterns for everyday life. We all know that crash diets, appetite suppressants and other fad diets are not effective in the long run. The only effective way to control or maintain weight is to learn and practice how to balance our food quality and intake with our activity output. It's a "balancing act."

A gradual weight loss of one to two pounds a week is sufficient and sensible as far as maintaining a healthy lifestyle is concerned. The Canada Food Guide offers an excellent daily rule for food intake and balance nutrition. If you eat accordingly from each of the four food groups daily, you are assured of getting an adequate supply of the more than 50 nutrients you require.

Meat, fish, poultry and alternatives - two servings; breads and cereals - three to five servings; vegetables and fruit - four to five servings; milk and milk products - Adults two servings, children two servings and teens three to four servings.

Phone Alberta: Agriculture at 542-5368 for a copy of Canada's Food Guide. Following the guide will provide 1,000-1,400 calories daily - in effect, a weight reduction diet.

One pound is equal to 3,500 calories. Therefore reducing your calorie intake by only 500 calories a day will allow you to lose one pound per week. Combine this with increased activity (for example, walking 30 minutes at a brisk pace will "burn up" an additional 200 calories) and a sensible weight loss pattern of about one to two pounds per week can be achieved without a drastic change in your daily routine.

Your overall goal for your weight maintenance or reduction program is to permanently adjust your balance of input and output so that you can maintain your ideal weight range. The process should be gradual so that at each level you are able to become comfortable with the new balance. This is why crash diets and gimmicks have only a short-term effect. The results happen too fast to be permanent.

Simply put, to maintain your ideal weight, balance exercise (output) with food intake (input). To lose weight, burn more calories than you take in.

Never pay a compliment as though you expected a receipt.

Parkland County

Councillor saved embarrassment of disqualification

By Rick Gosson

A retroactive motion by local school trustees has saved a county councillor the embarrassment of being disqualified from the County of Parkland Board of Education.

Carl Baron faced disqualification March 24 after being absent from three consecutive board meetings.

The School Act states that a person is not qualified to remain a trustee if he "absents himself without being authorized by a resolution of the board to do so...unless his absence is due to illness which he can prove by a medical certificate covering the period of his absences."

The majority of trustees decided to excuse one of Baron's absences on the grounds that he'd been involved in county business at the time.

Four trustees — Ken Fuhr, Penny Miller, John Willson and Sandra Lloyd — voted against the motion.

Fuhr pointed out the onus is on individual school trustees to seek authorization from the board if they know they're going to be absent for three consecutive meetings.

"I can't agree on principle to a retroactive motion," he said.

Miller said she was uncomfortable voting on the matter but her conscience also would not allow her to support a retroactive motion.

Superintendent of Schools Mary Tachuk told trustees he'd sought legal advice on the matter and been told the School Act is "capable of a number of different interpretations."

Trustees could choose to consider a retroactive motion, given the circumstances of one of Baron's absences, but he suggested they inform the minister of Alberta Education of their action due to the "sensitivity" of the issue.

Reeve Ron Pollock took exception to the comments of some trustees during the debate.

The trustees appeared to be suggesting that county councillors forget all their duties as councillors when they sit on the board of education, he said.

Council and the board have operated on a congenial basis but now councillors will have to begin watching themselves, even though their absences from board meetings haven't been a "neglect of duties."

The intent of provincial legislation was not to "remove people from the board," he said.

Baron excused himself from the debate of the motion to approve his absence but said later that he'd been at a health unit meeting in Edmonton during one of the board of education meetings.

He'd attended a Jan. 13 board budget meeting as well as Jan. 27 and Feb. 17 board finance committee meetings but hadn't realized he was absent from three consecutive regular board meetings.

No need for boredom

Clubs, sports, camps — there's plenty

By Stacey Orlesky
and Bill Lysak

Drayton Valley has lots to offer its teenagers.

If you're interested in meeting once a week and doing different activities such as sports to watching a movie, the Pentecostal Assembly, Baptist, Lutheran, Catholic, and the Mormon churches offer a youth group for teenagers. The activities are interesting and educational.

The Missionary Church offers summer camps for teens. Programs offered vary from horseback riding, canoeing and other activities.

Schools offer several sport programs for teenagers, both recreational and competitive. At Frank Maddock high school after school on Fridays, they have a fun game of badminton and volleyball for those who are interested.

If there is a demand for scouting activities Mark Thasen is willing to set up a program for 14 to 18-year-olds Mondays from 6:45 to 8 p.m. but interest and participation is needed.

For female teens, 12 to 15 years of age, Canadian Girls in Training (CGIT) offers all types of activities such as outdoor and indoor programs. The 15 to 18-year-age bracket is called Rangers.

If you're interested in learning about navigation, meteorology, principle flight, and activities such as flying, gliding, dances, sports, and camping — air cadets are the ones to get in touch with.

There is a range of 4-H clubs for teens, including beef, computer, horse, and sewing.

Even the Twilight bowling alley offers teens something to do. The youth bowling council is open to kids from eight to 18 and takes place Tuesdays to Thursdays at 4 p.m. Anyone can participate as long as they register first.

The County of Parkland Parks and Recreation department offers a wide range of activities throughout the year. They range from cultural festivals to BMX workshops, from tennis camps to water skiing, from windsurfing to bird watching. Currently, they are offering a motorcycle safety training course. The program starts in May. For more information contact Ed Haykowiak at the County of Parkland office in Drayton Valley.

There's always a wide range of sports for teens, ranging from golf to soccer. Both the Pembina Educational Consortium and the Powerhouse Further Education Council have courses aimed at the teenagers.

It's apparent there's lots of activities in Drayton Valley but very few take advantage of the facilities and programs.

If none of these programs interest you, as Rev. Aldrich said, "You must make your own entertainment."

Judge's advice to teens

"Develop backbone not a wishbone"

Judge Phillip Gilliam of Denver, Colorado recently gave some advice to the young people of his community worth repeating.

It was an answer to the cry of many teenagers today... What can we do? Where can we go?

"Go home," said the judge.

"Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, wash the car, learn to cook, scrub the floors, repair the sink, build a boat, get a job. Help the preacher. Visit the sick, the poor, study your lessons. And when you are through, read a good book."

"Your parents do not owe you an entertainment. Your town does not owe you recreation facilities. The world does not owe you a living. You owe the world something."

"You owe your time, energy, talents so that you can enrich the world."

"In plain words, GROW UP, quit being a cry baby. Get out of your dream world and develop a backbone, not a wishbone, and start acting like a man or lady."

"You have no right to expect your parents to buy your every whim and fancy just because selfish ego instead of common sense dominates your personality, thinking and requests."

"In heaven's name, grow up and go home."

Bill Lysak, working at the computer, and Stacey Orlesky put the finishing touches to their article. The work experience students have just completed the three-part feature.

Teen activities

Final feature

For the past two weeks Stacey Orlesky and Bill Lysak have been talking to teenagers in Drayton Valley.

The first week teens were asked what there was to do. Last week the teens indicated what they would like to see in the way of things to do.

This week, the final feature, highlights many teen-oriented activities available in the community.

Two major projects underway for Alder Flats Ag Society

By Bernice Johnson

Gordon and Karen Skulski are the proud parents of Kaylyn Lorrain, born March 12 at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton. She weighed seven pounds one ounce, a sister for Jillian.

Proud grandparents are Lara and Doris Larson; Lorraine Skulski of Edmonton; great-grandparents Christina Larson of Wetaskiwin, Alice Fredrickson of Edmonton and Fred Burnett of Red Deer.

Lara and Doris Larson attended the UFA convention in Calgary March 9-12 held at the Sheridan Cavalier.

Thank you is extended to Jim Bannack and Peter and Dwayne Murray for helping Muriel Weber pull her vehicle out of the ditch by the Buck

Lake school recently. It was recess at the time of the incident and a little fellow suggested that if she "had a Chev she would have got out easy."

Two major projects are planned for completion this summer by the Alder Flats Agricultural Society at a budgeted cost of just under $50,000.

The racetrack improvements, new corrals and chutes will cost less than the $17,000 allotted, if the hoped-for gifts of pipes are received. Aberford and Dome have contributed about 3,000 feet and Tim Gillard has already built some gates.

The skating rink, to be located southeast of the community building, is budgeted at $70,000. The two-storey change and spectator rooms will be at the south end and the ice surface will run north-south to minimize meltings from the sun reflected off the boards.

The building permit is expected to be issued soon. Special fund-raising projects have not yet been decided. The spring race meet will be improved by adding some infield events for which local ranchers have already promised stock. It is hoped other local organizations will add special events either in conjunction with the race meet or at other dates.

Possible sources of fill dirt and the related landscaping of parking facilities on the old rink site have not yet been decided.

The county has been asked to develop the roads on the east and west sides of the community land.

The citizens' bonspiel report was presented with the net somewhat down from last year. Full reports of the other bonspies will be given at the April meeting.

An information report with respect to the formation of a municipal district in the Drayton Valley area is available from the offices of Municipal Services Branch, Alberta Municipal Affairs, 11th Floor, Jarvis Building, 9925-107 St., Edmonton T5K 2H9 or County of Parkland No. 31 Sub-office, 5516 Industrial Road, Drayton Valley (542-4428).

New postal rates April 1

Canada Post's new postal rates were in effect April 1.

First class letter rates will be 36 cents within Canada, 42 cents to the United States and 72 cents to other international destinations. The international rate is one cent less than originally proposed for the convenience of customers who will be able to use two domestic stamps for overseas postage.

Current rates, set in 1985, are 34 cents in Canada, 39 cents to the States and 68 cents to other countries. Rate changes were proposed in January as part of the corporation's financial and operating plan.

In addition to revising the international letter rate, the corporation will also charge less than planned for addressed advertising mail and parcels to and from the North West Territories.

The basic addressed advertising mail rate will increase from 15 to 17 cents on April 1. A further increase on July 1, however, will be 0.5 cents instead of two cents. New presort options, also effective July 1, will be 15 and 16 cents, one cent less than originally proposed.

There will be no increase to the basic North West Territories parcel rates in recognition of the higher rates that currently exist in this region.

The corporation said new 36-cent postage stamps for domestic and international letters will be available at postal counters on March 30.

A 42-cent Olympic commemorative stamp will go on sale April 3. United States and international rate definitive stamps will be issued May 6.

Alberta receives disaster assistance

The federal government has provided $7.5 million in disaster financial assistance to the government of Alberta for damages caused by severe floods in July of 1986.

Provided under the terms of the Disaster Financial Assistance (DFA) arrangements, the federal payment was made by Secretary of State for External Affairs and Yellowhead MP Joe Clark, on behalf of Perrin Beatty, minister responsible for emergency preparedness. Accepting for the province was Ken Kowalski, MLA for Barrhead and minister responsible for Alberta Public Safety Services.

The floods occurred in north-central Alberta after heavy rainfall caused several river systems to overflow. The resulting floods caused extensive damage to residential dwellings, crops, agricultural buildings and county and municipal infrastructures. Total damage eligible for federal financial assistance was estimated at about $16 million. A further federal payment will be made once final eligible expenditures have been calculated.

"The government of Canada is pleased to be able to help when a disaster of this magnitude strikes a province or territory," said Clark. "We hope the federal payment will assist the province of Alberta to quickly restore flood-damaged areas to their pre-disaster condition."

The DFA arrangements provide the federal government with a mechanism for responding to provincial requests for financial aid in the wake of major disasters. A formula relating disaster ex-pensitures to the population of the affected province is used to calculate the appropriate federal share.

Paving tenders

Alberta Transportation and Utilities will call for tenders for a major paving project in the Calmar area. Minister of Transportation Al Adair and Drayton Valley M.L.A. Shirley Cripps announced recently.

This project involves final paving of Secondary Road 795 from north of the junction of Secondary Road 616 north for 17 kilometres to the Calmar town boundary.

"This work will complete final paving of this connection between Highway 13 and 39," said Cripps. "Both commercial and recreational traffic will benefit upon completion of this project this summer."

Adair said, "The base pavement on this section was placed in 1983. Final paving will bring this section up to its ultimate strength. This project is being funded through Alberta Transportation and Utilities' Secondary Roads Program."

Several activities are being planned for National Wildlife Week April 5-12...

An invitation to all Albertans to participate in National Wildlife Week, April 5-12, was extended by Minister of Forestry, Lands and Wildlife Don Sparrow.

"This year's theme - Join Hands in Conservation: Wildlife Needs You - emphasizes the important role that we must all play in conserving our precious wildlife heritage," said Sparrow.

"Wildlife Week also offers a challenge to the public and private sectors of the province to highlight the many conservation activities initiated by Albertans."

Many activities have been planned throughout the provinces during this special week. The Alberta Fish and Wildlife Division is featuring a poster contest, mail displays and classroom visits by wildlife officers and biologists.

The Provincial Museum

of Alberta in Edmonton is hosting a special Wildlife Week festival from April 9-12 featuring guest lectures such as Grant McEwan, John and Janet Foster and Dr. Jim Butler. There will also be films, field trips and giveaways. Additional information can be obtained from the Provincial Museum of Alberta.

Battle River Tourist Association monthly meeting

Despite icy road conditions, close to 80 people attended the March 19 Battle River Tourist Association monthly meeting, held in Edberg and co-hosted by the County of Camrose and the Village of Edberg.

Ian Bastin, Edberg mayor, welcomed the group to his community. BRTA County of Camrose representative Vic McCarroll, brought greetings on behalf of the County of Camrose. Both gentlemen alluded to the work of BRTA and urged the group to continue their efforts in promoting Battle River Country.

In dealing with business from previous meetings BRTA manager S. Clemens advised that the video production being developed to promote Battle River Country is well underway. She further reported that a mobile tourist information trailer has been obtained for the town of Devon.

In dealing with a request from the Town of Drayton Valley to join BRTA, members supported a recommendation of the BRTA executive "that providing an acceptable agreement can be reached by all parties involved, BRTA accept Drayton Valley as a member of BRTA." Because there would be a some boundary change involved the final decision will be made by the Tourism Association of Alberta Board of Directors.

Acting on a request from the Colonist Railcar Society, BRTA past president Lindsay Smith reported that he met with Tom Pain, supervisor of Central Western Railway and learned there are in fact two railcars situated in Stettler and that there is indeed an interest in organizing railcoach tours. Smith toured the two coaches and was impressed with their condition. "There is definitely potential for organized tours," said Smith and he will do some further investigation into the project.

In other business, members were advised by Jean MacDonald of Ol' MacDonalds campground that the government of Alberta has cut from its budget the transportation of Mobile Alberta Culture Displays and that the mobile trailer displays will be dismantled and the trailers disposed of. MacDonald requested that BRTA support their endeavors to have the mobile units located at Ol' MacDonalds Campsite beginning this summer. Members moved to support the MacDonalds request and to further encourage support from the county and town of Stettler.

Members heard a presentation by Keith Haddock, Forestburg Collieries Ltd. regarding having a surface mining museum developed at the site of the old Diplomat mine which closed in June 1986. The request received unanimous support from the BRTA and further BRTA will be inviting all BRTA member municipalities to support the project. "It's an excellent opportunity to develop a unique tourist attraction in the heart of Battle River Country," said BRTA president Jacobson.

Attending the meeting to speak to members on Volksmarching were two representatives, Jack Archer from Zone 14 and Dennis Ruspak of Wetaskiwin. Details of how a community can organize a Volksmarch were discussed. "It's a fine opportunity to encourage visitors into your community," said Ruspak, who has participated in dozens of walks and hand on hand an impressive collection of unique medals and other awards he has collected.

The next meeting of the BRTA will be held in Sedgewick, April 28.

Alaskan adventure film coming to town

Ory From the Mountain, a World Wide Pictures production, is an Alaskan adventure film coming to the Caradim Theatre in Drayton Valley April 9-12.

Screenwriter Daniel L. Quirk, set this story in the majestic scenery of Alaska, and the film shows extensive beauty and wildlife of this "last frontier" state.

The story centres around the Sanders family. Larry takes his 10-year-old son Cal on a camping trip where he is to break the news that he and his wife Carolyn are to get a divorce. A life-threatening accident and an old hermit living in the deserted mining camp combine to change the course of Larry's direction. Carolyn, faced with the option of getting an abortion, is bitter and unable to forgive her husband for a temporary affair he carried on with a girl working in his office.

Playing the principle roles in Ory From the Mountain are four outstanding performers.

James Cavan plays Jonathan, the old hermit who lives alone with his dog Jake, who is the caretaker of the deserted mining camp in dependent Mine. He detests the intrusion of Larry and Cal Sanders, but is able to share his Christian faith.

Wes Parker plays Larry Sanders whose marriage is on the brink of disaster because of his unfaithfulness and his wife's unwillingness to forgive.

Rita Walter is Carolyn Sanders, who is unable to forgive her husband for his unfaithfulness. She contemplates an abortion.

Chris Kidd plays 10-year-old Cal Sanders. When his father is seriously injured in a kayaking accident, Cal seeks the help of the old mountaineer, Jonathan.

Billy Graham appears as himself with a message of hope.

Notable in the supporting cast is Coleen Gray, who plays the mother of Carolyn Sanders.

Walking is pleasurable, relaxing and inexpensive

Canada is, without doubt, one of the most beautiful countries in the world. With our coastline and mountains, plains and farmlands, lakes and rivers, all outdoors are our playground.

And there is so much we can do outdoors. The list includes boating, canoeing, cricket, cycling, fishing, gardening, golf, hiking, jogging, lawn bowling, orienteering, shuffleboard, snowshoeing, skating, skiing, tennis, and walking. Now there's something almost everyone can do. Walking is an easily accessible, non-programmed way to fitness. By its very nature, it begs the unscenific approach. There's no conscious thought of "exercising," but your cheeks are spring in the stride, and the good feeling after, let you know you're on the right track.

Walking doesn't offer the speed of running or cycling, or the demands of swimming, but it's equally pleasurable and relaxing, a great place to start, and, for many, a place they happily stay. Equipment's no problem. All you need are comfortable shoes and clothing to suit the weather and you can head out the door.

If you're not a regular walker now, start with a couple of short sessions a day. A "short" walk could be five, 10, even 30 minutes, depending on your age and level of fitness. Experiment. You're the best judge of what's right for you.

Pick walking times that suit your routine and schedule, then stick to them. "Utility walking" can cover a lot of ground. Walk to the store or to visit friends. Get off the bus a few stops early on the way to the recreation centre for park the car a few blocks away if you drive).

Set a good pace when you're ready for it. Strolling along is not as good as walking briskly. Window shopping doesn't do it either. Gradually extend the length of your walks and go a little faster.

Short daily outings might lead to longer walks in the country. If you'd like to get off the beaten track, get in touch with a hiking group in your area. Newcomers are always welcome, so join in. It's a great way to explore new territory and make new friends.

For walking and hiking clubs and other outdoor recreation programs, contact your local seniors' activity centre. For instructional books, check your library or bookstore.

Active life for seniors

Appeals to all ages

The 1981 Canada Fitness Survey showed that while walking is a popular activity for Canadians of all ages, it has special appeal for older adults. It's an efficient form of exercise and one you can do safely all your life.

Walking's accessible.

beneficial and fun. If you're not convinced, listen to Henry Walk of H&R Walk. When Park/Faction asked him about the benefits of walking, Henry was bullish. "Walking's good exercise," he said, "it pays huge dividends and it's less taxing than you think."

Students must be equipped to deal with changing, complex world...

Reading, writing and arithmetic — the old basics taught in schools long ago.

If the schools today only taught the three Rs, they would be trouble because the schools would be failing our children. Students today must be equipped to cope with a changing, complex, uncertain world. For perhaps the first time in history, children will be dealing with future situations of which their parents have little or no experience. Schools must therefore teach children to be discerning thinkers of strong character.

How well are the educators doing in the county of Leduc?

Erhard Schulz, principal of Calmar school, is sensitive to the needs of the learner. He believes that students must be allowed to develop academically, emotionally and socially in ways appropriate to their age levels. His students are challenged to do their best. His staff is challenged to provide a broad, general education. Businesses today are most interested in employing people with a basic competence in such areas as math and language arts who possess responsible attitudes.

Calmar school consists of 500 students attending kindergarten through Grade 12. Schulz sees the school as having a character-building function and an academic function at all levels. For purposes of administration and instruction, Calmar school is divided into three groups or divisions.

In the first division from kindergarten to Grade 3, children are eager to learn. As well as teaching the basics, teachers work hard to give their young students a positive attitude toward learning. In the second division or middle school, grades 4 to 8, students are in the developmental years. Children develop the foundations for future studies through core courses and are exposed to a wide range of learning experiences through complementary courses. Some of the options at Calmar school include art, outdoor education, drama, French, computer literacy, physical education and music.

In the third division, grades 9 to 12, high school students are given increasing responsibility in charting their education. They can take a university entrance program, a business education certificate or a diploma program. The choice is theirs.

Calmar school is a good example of the way high school students are given more responsibility in the county of Leduc schools. High school students are treated more like adults in that Calmar school has an open campus. Students are free to leave the school if they do not have classes to attend. Students are given a degree of freedom but are accountable for their actions. The school policy handbook distributed to each student spells out responsibilities and consequences regarding such areas as coming late to class. The high school students recognize and accept the fact that no exceptions are made to the written policy.

Willow Park is the elementary school in the city of Leduc operated by the county. Approximately one-half of its 300 students are urban and one-half are rural. The philosophy of Willow Park is comparable to the philosophy of Calmar school. As principal Cec Raza says, "We at Willow Park school are dedicated to developing in each child pride in achievement and love of learning, self-confidence and a sense of personal worth, self-discipline and a respect for others."

Academics are the mainstay of Willow Park but students also benefit from regular instruction in health and physical education, art and music, library skills and computer skills. As well, programs address individual student differences: the gifted program, the special needs program and the living and learning skills program.

Educators are doing a good job in Leduc County schools but they cannot do everything. The Willow Park brochure states, "We are all in this together." Likewise, Calmar school's Erhard Schulz sees teachers and parents as having a joint responsibility to give the students the best possible chance in life. He sees the school as being a source of professional expertise with some of the answers for the many problems young people encounter.

Other groups beside students, teachers and parents belong to the education partnership. The county of Leduc board of education is one such group. It is their job to ensure the school system runs smoothly and continues to meet the needs of more than 4,000 students.

The impact of the government funding cuts is as yet unknown. However, it is the job of the school board to determine exactly how the shortfall in government funding will affect individual schools and you, the taxpayer.

The main objective of the county of Leduc board of education must be the maintenance of the good things presently occurring in the classrooms. We believe in the slogan of Willow Park school. We want all our schools to remain places, "where students count and people care!"

Energy-efficient home has to be carefully planned

There's no better time to do things right than right at the beginning — and that goes for building your new home.

That's the time to make sure that your house will not only meet your family's needs for space and special features, but will also be comfortable and easy on the utility bills.

Any house can be efficient if attention is given to five critical elements: insulation, air sealing, the heating system, ventilation and window design. But an energy-efficient home is an integrated system in which every element has to be considered in the context of other elements.

For help in fitting together the decisions you need to make, you can turn to a new booklet available from the provincial government's energy conservation branch. New Homes outlines the key elements of energy-efficient construction, the principles behind them and the relationship of each element to other planning decisions.

For example, the amount of insulation you install will affect the type of framing system you would use and the size and type of heating system you need. Sealing your home to prevent heat loss means you must install mechanical ventilation to prevent the accumulation of moisture or moisture.

Every decision you make — the type of insulation, the way you seal your home, the network you need for your heating and ventilation systems, the windows you choose — affects the way the house should be framed.

For most of us, comfort, health and safety aren't the only way considerations when it comes to building a new home. Cost is another reality — and the reality is that the cost of building a more energy-efficient home is somewhat higher than for a conventional house. On the other hand, an energy-efficient house saves on fuel bills and will be more comfortable.

So the New Homes booklet addresses the economics of energy-efficient homes and compares the costs with those of conventional construction to help you concentrate on the most cost-effective measures for your project.

If you're thinking about building a new house, now's the time to do it right.

For more information about the New Homes booklet, or other energy conservation topics, phone the energy conservation branch's energy matters inquiry service at Zenith 22559 (427-5300 Edmonton).

Norm Bittner

Leduc County facing several problems

Leduc county councillors are angry about what they see as failure by local MLAs to provide representation in provincial cabinet on local issues including annexation and a new municipal district.

Reeve Norman Bittner recently outlined a list of problems facing the county and noted responses by local MLAs.

The establishment of a new municipal district in the Drayton Valley area was one item of concern for Bittner.

"While there was a plebiscite held by municipal affairs, what was finally presented was something altogether different," he said. Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Cripps has spoken in favor of a new municipal district in the Drayton Valley area.

"I'm responding to my constituents' interests and the overwhelming majority is in favor of a new municipality. The boundary is in keeping with the concerns that have been expressed by residents in that area ... I've had far, far more representation from that area to be included than that to be included," she said.

Leduc annexation was also an issue which Bittner expressed concern about. Wetaskiwin-Leduc MLA Don Sparrow has taken a neutral position in the annexation update.

Sparrow's executive assistant Jay Litke recently outlined the minister's position.

"The minister has clearly told city and county councils he will not take a position on annexation. It puts him in a no-win situation. The government has a board set up to deal with applications of this nature and it will make a decision. The local people will have to work out their decision with the Local Authorities Board," said executive assistant Litke.

A continuing concern about development of the Genesee power project was also important, noted Bittner.

"Looking at the Genesee power plant, we do not know whether the project will continue to go ahead or not," said Bittner.

Another problem which recently surfaced is a letter from the deputy minister of municipal affairs regarding an annexation proposal by Beaumont for land southeast of the town, said Bittner.

The Beaumont annexation bid was last dealt with in 1980 when the town attempted to annex 960 acres southeast of its present boundaries.

Provincial funding cuts are also a source of concern, noted Bittner, explaining that budgets cannot be established until cuts have been determined.

"These issues could be dealt with one at a time. The question is, who is there to represent county of Leduc ratepayers at the provincial level? We've got one MLA looking at a new municipal district in the west and one who says he's neutral on a city of Leduc annexation bid," said the reeve.

Road bans now in effect

Road bans are now in place in the County of Leduc.

A 75 per cent loading restriction has been placed on gravel and selected oil and paved local secondary roads.

Exempt from the bans are vehicles and combinations of vehicles which do not exceed a total weight of 5,000

kg, school buses, while empty or transporting children to and from school, rubber-tired farm tractors, trucks transporting fresh milk and cream and Her Majesty's mail service.

Surprise birthday party is held

A surprise 80th birthday party was held recently for a Drayton Valley resident.

Family and friends gathered at the Black Gold Friday, March 20 to celebrate Bobbie Agar's birthday.

The following afternoon, Bobbie's family served coffee and birthday cake to her friends at the Wishing Well Apartments.

Although the birthday party was a surprise, Bobbie Agar might have guessed something was up, when she was met at the Black Gold front door by piper Lynn Davis, who piped her into the banquet room, where family and friends waited.

Photographer Ray Johnson was the first to officially record the event.

The Drayton Valley resident, who makes her home at the Wishing Well, was born in Torilustog, Scotland. She came to Canada at 16 years of age and settled in Willowbunch, Saskatchewan.

She married in Saskatchevan and had four children, two boys and two girls.

From Saskatchewan she moved to Manitoba, living and working in Flin Flon, The Pas and Churchill. In The Pas and Churchill she owned a restaurant. Later, it was on to Alberta, and such places as Calgary, Fort Assiniboine, Whitecourt, Fox Creek and High Level. Further travels took her to Fort St. John in northern B.C., then back to Edmonton and then to Drayton Valley.

Guests who gathered at the 80th birthday party included her children, Gordon and Louise Agar from Edmonton; Norman and Vicki Agar from Sparwood, B.C.; Vivian and Bill Tront of Edmonton and Violet Berard of Winnipeg. Grandchildren in attendance included Cindy and Ricky Agar and Darryl Tront, all of Edmonton; John Halliwell from Brooks; Judy and Duane Dean from Clearbrook, B.C.; Janet Agar of Sparwood, B.C.; Anita Berard, Michelle Berard and Ronnie Agar, all of Winnipeg.

Grandchildren Rayvan Agar, Cory Halliwell and Jennyka Halliwell, all of Brooks made the trip to Drayton Valley for the special occasion.

Friends included Percy and Carol Reid of Drayton Valley, Steve and Elaine Pyda from Fort St. John, B.C. and Ruth Smesdal of Drayton Valley.
